McGILL TEAM MEETS QUEENS AT KINGSTON

Party Left Last Night By Special Car.

SUPPORTERS HOPEFUL.

Intermediate Meet Loyola In First Game To-Day.

With a light work-out yesterday afternoon at the stadium, the McGill Rugby squad completed its preparations for the game with Queens this afternoon, and left last night for Kingston, where it will mix with the Tri-color in the opening match of the Intercollegiate series for the 1920 season. Twenty-two players went down on the special car which carried the squad, and included in the party were Coach Shaughnessy, Manager "Rog" McLagan, Secretary James Lalanne, and Tom Elliott, the veteran trainer. Besides the Rugby aggregation there was a goodly turnout of rooters, who made the trip to do their part in cheering the Red and White on to victory.

It is expected that there will be no change in the line-up from that announced in the "Daily" on Friday. Flannagan, Russell and "Boo" Anderson will start on the half line, "Selby" Cope will play at flying wing and Normie Wallace will fill the quarter position. Parkins and "Gordie" Nicholson will occupy the berths at outside, while Captain "Dud" Ross and McGregor will be found at the middle positions. Ambridge and Notman, the two husky plungers of the Red and White squad will be at their usual positions at inside. Livshin, Timmins and Bill McDonald will work the scrum. Spars, who were taken to the Presbyterial camp, include Gordie Ross, Lane, "Bones" Little, Lezier, Sully Wilson, Lafoley, Gamble and Carl Forbes.

MacKenzie and Walker, two Royal Military College Rugby enthusiasts, will handle the game, MacKenzie acting as referee and Walker as judge of play.

While the team only indulged in a light practice at the Molson Memorial Stadium yesterday afternoon, the regular crowd of spectators viewed with pleasure the players going through their signal practices, and limbering up on the huge bucking machine. The men worked with a (Continued on Page 4)

GREAT COMPETITION.

All Preliminary Games To Be Played By Tuesday.

The brand of tennis played on the courts has improved greatly in the last couple of days, due to the fact that the players are getting back into their form. Several of the men who have not played all summer have come back remarkably after having a few sets to limber them up. Clair Ward is one player who has shown that he is still able to play an excellent game although not having practised for four months. Fortin and McTaggart have also improved since the opening of college, and are both capable of holding places amongst the Class A men. Two new men were out yesterday who both look as though they had had a great deal of tennis experience. One of these was Wright, from the West, and the other, Crocker, from Tufts College. Crocker was formerly the captain of his college team, and should be capable of becoming one of the first half dozen. His cross court shot is one of the prettiest which has been seen on the courts. Wright plays a fast and useful game, his serve especially being very effective. He and Crocker are apparently on a par with each other, although they have not played a singles match yet, so it cannot be definitely determined just how they rank. Both (Continued on Page 2.)

Owing to the keen interest that is being evidenced by the students of the University in the McGill-Queens Rugby Football fixture which will be staged at Kingston this afternoon, arrangements have been completed by the "McGill Daily" for a special leased wire from the scene of the game, and reports of the play will be issued by bulletins. Two bulletins will be posted—one at the stadium, where those attending the Freshman-Sophomore meet will be kept posted on the play, and the second will be placed at the Union. Detailed results of the game will be sent by quarters.

REGISTRATION NOT COMPLETE

Record Year Promised When Reports Come To Hand.

Registration figures have increased by 286 during the past week. Total registration to date shows an increase of 71 over the total registration for the corresponding period in 1919-20. Judging from present figures this year's quota of undergrads promises to be somewhat higher than last year's record. Registration figures are still far from complete. Students in fourth and fifth years in Medicine do not commence work until the 18th, and therefore have not registered. No figures have been received from Macdonald.

The registration figures as reported Friday evening, follow:

Medicine (first three years)...	486	463
Arts Undergrads...	459	429

NOMINATIONS FOR HOUSE COMMITTEE

All Names Must Be In Before Monday At Six.

As was announced in yesterday's "Daily," nominations for Faculty Representatives on the McGill Union House Committee must be handed in to the secretary of the Students' Council by 6 p.m., on Monday, October 11th. These representatives to be elected by the various faculties will be entrusted with the management of the McGill Union during the coming session. The important part played by the Union in Student affairs needs no comment. The proper working of such institutions as the Cafeteria will depend almost entirely on the capabilities of the men elected. There is only one full working-day to get all these nominations handed in at the Secretary's Office: no nominations will be accepted after 6 p.m. Owing to the fact that the men in fourth and fifth year Medicine will not be back until the 18th of this month, the election of Representatives from that faculty will be postponed until after that date.

ENTRY LIST FOR TODAY'S MEET LARGE

Events Will Start At Two o'Clock Sharp.

FORMER STARS ENTER.

Winners Will Compete At University Meet.

The Freshman-Sophomore meet will commence at 2.00 o'clock this afternoon. The competitors must be up in the dressing rooms at 1.30 o'clock, and ready to get out on their marks at 1.45 p.m., as there will be no delay in any of the events in order to wait for any man. The events will follow in quick succession, so that there will be plenty of action throughout the games and they will not last too long.

The meet, which is the first big athletic event of the college season, promises to be one of the most successful ever held at the stadium. There are plenty of competitors in all of the events, and they have been training during the past few weeks, so that there should be some good exhibitions. It is expected that there will be a very large crowd at the games, but, in accordance with the custom in regard to Freshman-Sophomore meets, there is no admission charge, and the first to come will secure the best seats.

Among the men who have entered are many who have already made a name for themselves at college and intercollegiate meets, as well as a large number who are competing for the first time at McGill. Among the latter are many who have made names for themselves in other parts of the country, and the new recruits for the varsity team will most likely be chosen from their numbers. The events to be run off will include all of the regular events held at an intercollegiate meet, and it will be the first real test of the men's ability.

The men who are competing to-day include three of last season's champion intercollegiate team. These are Doug. Dickie, Don Foss and Johnny Johnson, all of whom were point winners in the big meet. Dickie has improved wonderfully during the past year, and has added distance to all of his throws. As a matter of fact, it would not be surprising if he bettered some of the college and intercollegiate records in some of the events, as he has succeeded in doing (Continued on Page 3)

SUCCESSFUL FRESHMAN RECEPTION

Nervousness On Account Of Threats From Sophs.

FAIR ATTENDANCE.

Messages From "Dud" Ross and "Shag."

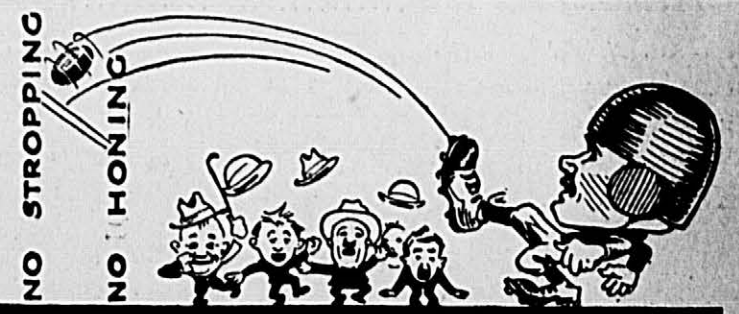

Yesterday evening at Strathcona Hall the McGill Y.M.C.A. gave their annual reception to the freshmen of Commerce, Medicine and Law. The other faculties having been entertained the night before.

The meeting opened at 8.15 p.m., Mr. A. H. MacLean acting as chairman. He called upon several professors in different faculties to say a few words to the new students.

Professor Mackay, on behalf of the Faculty of Applied Science, welcomed the freshmen to the university. He promised the full support of his faculty in giving all possible help to new students. In return he asked that every man should do his best, no matter whether his abilities were great or small.

Professor Rose of the Faculty of Law said a few words to the meeting. He pointed out the value of learning how to study, saying that it did not matter so much what was studied as how it was studied. Mr. McGarry followed with some songs, accompanied on the piano by Mr. Nichol.

Professor B. K. Sandwell of the Department of Commerce was then called upon. In a clever and witty address he advised against the freshmen trying to upset the old order of things at college. He remarked that, "bad (Continued on Page 3.)

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1920

THE GAME AT KINGSTON

To-day sees the opening of another season's Inter-Collegiate football when our team meets Queens at Kingston. The game promises to be particularly close contested for, if rumor speaks true, the Presbyterians have a formidable team this year and will, in addition, have the great advantage of playing on their own grounds.

Particular interest attaches to the game to-day because it is felt that it will furnish the first real test of our playing strength. The game against the Old Boys last Saturday was more in the nature of a work-out but the showing made by the McGill team was sufficient to justify considerable optimism.

Owing to the general interest being taken in the game, the "Daily" has arranged for a bulletin service, whereby the progress of the game can be followed play by play. Bulletins will be posted at the Union and also at the Stadium for the benefit of those taking part in the Freshman-Sophomore meet. In former years these bulletins have proven immensely popular, serving as a rallying-point for the enthusiasm of those who have not the good fortune of witnessing the game in person, and we have no doubt the result will be expectantly awaited. Whatever it may be we may rest assured that our men will uphold the best traditions of Old McGill, and if they cannot command success they will at least deserve it.

THE FRESHMAN-SOPHOMORE TRACK MEET

The Freshman-Sophomore meet this afternoon deserves the support of every worthy son of McGill, first because it is in keeping with the proud traditions of the University to develop the physical side of the students; and secondly, because there will appear on the field, for the first time, the men who are going to battle in the coming years so that the Red and White may be continuously led to victory. Here lie latent possibilities, untold capacities and victories yet unborn.

The support which the students, who have not entered the contest, can give is not to be lightly estimated, for the honors won on every University athletic field are shared not only by the fortunate contestants, but by every man who loves his Alma Mater.

The approach of Thanksgiving Day in Canada should remind American students at McGill that November 25th is not so far off. The American Club of the University has made Thanksgiving Dinner at the Windsor an annual event for years, and H. C. Knowlton, Med. '23, vice-president, will call a meeting of all students from across the border in a few days for the purpose of planning for this event and the years' activities. A large influx of new students should bring the membership up to sixty this year.

GOLF.

The annual golf match between Students and Professors is held on the morning of Sports' Day, Oct. 15th. In the past the Professors have usually shown themselves the superiors of the less-experienced Students, but it is thought that this can be overcome by better organization this year.

as things are, the chances are very great that if they are changed they will only become worse." Professor Sandwell eloquently advised the freshmen to keep up the old traditions at the university, and stily suggested that they should be passed along to the next first year unpaired. He commended participation in college activities, and especially the "McGill Daily" as a vehicle for earning the art of self-expression. His address was concluded by affirming that the more important part of a student's education lay, not so much in the curriculum, as in his outside activities.

At this stage refreshments were served, which were heartily partaken of, despite the evident nervousness of the freshmen at the prospect of a possible "rush" taking place. The rumors proved unfounded, and the meeting continued.

Capt. Mackay then spoke of the work being done by the McGill Y.M.C.A. He emphasized the independence of the organization, and made the fact clear, that it is "run by McGill students, for McGill students."

The last speaker of the evening was Mr. Robinson, representing the Students' Council. He gave messages to honor of playing leading parts with many of the artists now presenting "Maid of the Mountains" in Montreal.

A curious thing is happening to the massive tower of Westminster Cathedral, a landmark for miles, which is leaning. It is three feet out of the perpendicular, but does not look an eighth of an inch out from any viewpoint.

Hall-oha Oe!

By A. S. N.

Oh, the grand grey old building has stood many years.
It has crowned the green hill through the centuries dim.
It has looked down on sufferers' tortures and tears
And now they are turning it into a gym!

They've smashed down partitions and
hammered out walls
With hatchets and chisels they've mauled up the place
While I stand there and wall as the plaster dust falls
"My dear Molson Hall, to what usages base?"

For from this day henceforward no
more will be seen.

The studes' frenzied faces as, clutching their domes,
They stagger out blindly and wildly
career
To the Union or Hall, or their busted-
up homes.

No more will be heard the hoarse
yell of "I'm pulled!"
When the gink who has stewed there comes out for some air
And we'll never again hear, "The stuff
that I bulled."

On that paper, say, boy, it would give
yuh a scare!
Must these fond recollections be banished for good?
At the Powers' mere word, at the breath of a whim.

Must we let our reforms take a course
so—well, crude?
And turn our sweet Molson Hall into
a gym?

Gone, gone are the dinosaurs, fled
long ago,
And mammoths of old, they have passed to their rest
Along with the blithe pterodactyl—
yea, ho,

But our hoar Molson Hall has but changed for the best.
So we'll gather round gaily and bel-
low and bleat
"Away now forever with memories
grim.

Tho' the flooring may tear a few
holes in our feet
Hall, hail to the Molson Hall—Lo, it's
a gym!"

MEETING HELD BY FOOTBALL ENTHUSIASTS

English Rugby To Be Played
In Future.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Assurance For Equipment
Given By R. S.
O'Meara.

A meeting of the English Rugby
Football Club was held in Strathcona Hall yesterday at 5 p.m., and was largely attended by enthusiasts from all parts of the Empire.

The prospects of the club and the work that has been done were detalled by Mr. McNamee, Med., who took the chair.

Due largely to the efforts of Mr.
R. S. O'Meara, assurance has been given by the Athletic Association that every assistance as regards equipment, etc., will be given by them, provided sufficient enthusiasm is shown to put the club on a flourishing basis.

The use of the campus as a playing ground has been granted, and practices will start as soon as final arrangements for equipment have been completed.

A letter has been received from
Mr. Leopold, the president of the Montreal English Rugby Club, urging that English Rugby be re-started at McGill, and promising any assistance within his power. The election of officers was proceeded with, and resulted as follows:

Hon. president—Prof. Whitnall.
Med. Prof. Whitnall was an enthusiastic follower of Rugby at Oxford University, and is anxious to get the game going here.

President—Mr. McNamee, Med.
Vice-pres.—Mr. E. Buchanan, Law.
Sec-treasurer—Mr. C. L. Palmer, Science.

Captain—Election deferred until practices are started.

The executive was elected as follows:

(1)—Eastern Canada representative—Mr. Lawrence, Science.
(2)—Western Canada representative—Mr. R. S. O'Meara, Arts.
(3)—United Kingdom representative—Lord Conington, Science.

Discussion on the prospects of the club was proceeded with, and Mr.
O'Meara, president of the Western Club, and Mr. Lawrence, president of the Maritime Club, agreed to interest their respective clubs in the revival of English Rugby.

It was also stated that "Varsity" are starting a similar club, and Intercollegiate games may be a possibility of the future.

The executive is confident that many students will turn out for the practices, and those who intend doing so will facilitate progress greatly if they will give their names and playing positions to one or other of the executive.

For those who wish to start practice immediately, Mr. Leopold has issued a general invitation for them to turn out to-day with the Montreal English Rugby Club, bringing their own equipment.

The players are meeting at 8.30 p.m. at the C.N.R. Tunnel station.

Finally, men who have not previously played the game, and who are anxious to turn out, need have no timidity about doing so. The principles of the game are not difficult to learn, and once learnt, progress is as rapid as the players care to make it.

STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN!

The question of whether intensive drives against accidents is a paying proposition is answered simply by the statement issued in connection with the "Week" conducted in the Lehigh Valley in June of this year.

The following are some of the results: (1) A reduction of 92 per cent in mining accidents; (2) a reduction of 80 per cent. in electric railway accidents; (3) a reduction of 36 per cent. in all public accidents, and (4)
a reduction of 90 per cent. in accidents in the largest industrial plants in the Lehigh Valley. At the Bethlehem Steel Company's plant, where 15,000 men are employed, lost time accidents were reduced 97.7 per cent
for that week.

this at several of the practices during the past few weeks. This afternoon will show what may be expected from him when he is in competition with other men.

Donny Foss will be out in the sprints, jumps and weight events. Of course, his principal event will be the high jump, in which he tied for first place in the Intercollegiate games.
In a workout yesterday he easily topped the bar at some very creditable heights, and he will be worth watching this afternoon. In the weights he is practically sure of catching places, and should be one of the big point winners of the day.
Johnson will be seen in nothing but the sprints, but his work in these is generally equal to another man's in half a dozen events. He won the two-hundred yard event at the Intercollegiate last year, and since that time, he has gained a lot of valuable experience by competing in a large number of outside meets.

There are several men in the Sophomore year who did not turn out last session but who may be expected to show up well to-day. Forrest is a man who will bear watching in the sprints. He has a good style and covers the ground in quick time. He has yet to be seen in competition here, but judging from his style, he should be well up in the list of winners to-day. Goren is out again and is competing in the quarter mile. He has all the appearances of a track man by nature, and may surprise
many when his event is run off.

From Macdonald College comes Valterpool, who will work for the Sophomores in the sprint events. He has yet to be seen in action at the college track, but out at the Faculty of Agriculture they are backing him to show some of the men in the other faculties how to step out. There are other entries from Macdonald, all of whom are unknown quantities, but if they should be the winners of their events, it would not be the first time
it has happened, as many of our best track men in past years have come in from St. Anne.

In the distance events the Sophomores will be well represented. Some of their men who have been showing up well are Stephens, Legg and An-till, while Fredericks also includes the quarter mile event in his entries.
Of course, it is hard to give a prophecy of what will happen in a meet of this nature, and the only thing we can do is to sit and watch.

The Freshmen are almost entirely unknown to everyone excepting a few of their personal friends. Consiglio has attracted some prominence in the city by his allround ability on the M.A.A. team, and there is every chance for him to continue the good work here. The events in which he has been seen are the sprints and the weight events, and although he will have some very good men competing against him, he will make them fight hard to keep from gathering in the points. Usher is a man from the Montreal High School who has been working hard on the track, and he is in good condition for the sprints in which he will compete. Camp will compete in the weight events. He has the right build for the work, and with proper coaching should develop into a very good man.

However, the meet cannot be figured out on paper, and anyone wishing to find out the real facts will have to get up to the stadium this afternoon. There has been much work done upon the track and the jumping pit during the past week,
and the men appear to be in the best of condition. The prospects are for good weather, so that everything appears to be favorable. It is not very often that suitable track weather can be found during October, but the Red and White squad may be in luck this season.

The winners of the events this afternoon will be put through a rigid course of training next week in order to get them in condition for the University sports, and, later, for the Intercollegiate meet, if they should be lucky enough to make the team.

It would be well to remember that the meet will start sharply at two o'clock, and any man who is late will be scratched from his event. Everything possible will be done to help the competitors to do their best in the competition.

The officials for the meet are:

Referee—Dr. Sullivan.

Track judges—Dr. Whitnall, R. L.

Hamilton, J. King, C. Hay.

Field judges—Prof. H. E. Reilly

(jumps), W. D. Lawrence, J. Mc-

Donald, J. G. McKay (weights).

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Dear Ira,—

I read the other day of a maniac walking into a museum and hitting the caretaker with a shovel. What is to prevent the same thing happening to Bob, at the Union?

Yours,

LOU NATICK.

THE MIDNIGHT TRAGEDY.

The Editor sat in his den,
And clawed his humming dome
While from his lips fell now and then
A blob of greenish foam.

His gaze was glassy, fixed and bleak,
'Twas glued upon his hand,
As if he held a mug of 2½% (Alas, this desert land!)

For in his mitt disclosed to view
A mighty sheaf was there
Of papers white and green and blue—
In sooth, a gathering rare!

"But tell us, why should this gink show
Such grief?" you say to me.
Well, editors have to read, you know,
The stuff from R.V.C.

And there he sat, his brains atry
Like bacon in a pan,
Until at last he heaved a sigh,
Yelled "Blank! blank!" and began.

He turned a sheet, and lo! his jaw
Sank floorwards in dismay.
A clipping from the "Star" he saw
—The date was 15th May!

"Gadzooks!" he cried, or other words
To similar effect,
"Just take a slant at this, you birds,
They think our memory's wrecked."

Forthwith he turned another leaf
And fainted in his chair;
The staff all gathered round their chief

—They belowed, "Give him air!"

He raised his head and murmured,
"Whew!"
The most unkindest yet!
They've sent across a col. or two
Cut from last week's Gazette!"

Yet once more did this nut essay
This time, what did he seize?
A poem, called "The Breath of May"
Omit the flowers, please.

R.V.C.A.A. HELD MEET YESTERDAY

New Students Welcomed—
Elections To Athletic Asso.
Took Place.

A meeting of the R.V.C.A.A. was held yesterday in the Common Room, with the president, Miss Gillespie, in the chair. Miss Cartwright welcomed the students back to college, expressing the hope that they would all unite in making the work of the association a success during the coming year.

The president brought forward for the consideration of the members the question of admitting all undergraduate women students to the Undergraduate Society and to the various activities of the R.V.C.A.A. This matter was not discussed, as it is to be brought up at a meeting of the Undergraduate Society.

Miss Dart, the tennis manager, announced that the list of games had been posted. The preliminary game must be played off by Monday, as the finals will take place Friday morning. The two best players each year are to compose that team to compete for the class plouship.

It was announced that the Sports would be held in the afternoon of Saturday, October 23rd, behind the R.V.C., if the weather permits, but otherwise in the gymnasium. A motion was then made and carried that the Athletic Society request the Undergraduate Society to arrange a
The Dansant for the afternoon of Saturday, October 23rd.

The following assistant sports managers were then elected from the third year:

Tennis—Miss K. Newnam.

Basketball—Miss Mary Fry.

Sports—Miss T. Routh.

Hockey—Miss Evelyn Snyder.

JUNIOR SQUAD MEETS LOYOLA AT 12-30 P.M.

Team At Full Strength For Encounter.

SNAPPY GAME.

Meet Loyola Fourteen At Latter's Grounds—Large Turnout Looked For.

While the senior squad of the University is defending the laurels of the Red and White at Kingston this afternoon, the McGill Junior team will make its first appearance in league football when it stacks up against the Loyola fourteen at the latter's grounds. The game is scheduled to commence at 12.30 p.m., and promises to be a snappy exhibition of the popular pastime, and one which will draw a large following of rooters.

This season, the third team has a husky aggregation of players, and bids fair to take the lead in the race for titular honors. During the past week the squad has received special attention at the hands of Coach Shaughnessy and John Garrett, and is now ready for a gruelling struggle. Continually during the past seven days, the squad has stacked up against the seniors at the work-outs, and has showed exceedingly well. The machine acts snappily on signals and in bucking and defensive play has learned a great deal from its tussles with the intercollegiate team, and should give a good account of itself in to-day's fixture.

Folconer, at centre half, plays a fast steady game, and is particularly strong with the boot. He uses the left foot for the most part, has great distance in his punts, and gets his kick off when hard pressed. Pearce and Whittall will support him on the half line, and this trio will form a back division that will take some beating in its company.

Mathewson will be found at flying wing and generally directing the team. His experience on the grid-iron, coupled with his keen playing, will make him one of the most useful men on the field. Andy Rutherford will fill the key position at quarter. Eddie Clark has been working out behind the scrimmage during the week, but yesterday he essayed to stop one of Jeff Notman's heavy bucks and received the full force of the husky line-man's plunge with his ribs, re-

BADGE RULES.

Every year there is some trouble about the use of non-regulation uniforms and crests about the campus and stadium. The trouble is only with the freshmen, who are ignorant of the regulations concerning the use of "foreign" badges.

It is only natural that the freshmen should be proud of the prep. school from which they have graduated, but, once they have become students at McGill, they are bound by regulation to wear no other crest but that of Old McGill.

The ruling concerning the use of badges is as follows:

"The promiscuous use of non-regulation uniforms and the wearing of 'foreign' badges on the campus, or at any University athletic contest, is prohibited, and if this offence be persisted in after due warning, such offender may be debarred from participation in University athletics until reinstated by the Athletic Association."

vim and presented that dogged appearance which indicates only one thing—victory. The various plays were run over with a perfection of movement which showed that the men have benefited by the careful coaching of "Shag." The coach paid considerable attention to the working of the junior squad yesterday afternoon, but later faced the first and third teams to put the final touches on his bucking line, and to perfect the work of the senior squad in blocking the kicks of opposing halves. This point was a feature of the work-out for the senior squad hardly gave the junior back division a chance to get in one good boot.

While Shaughnessy and his men have little to say regarding the chances of the Red and White in to-day's match with the Presbyterians, it is confidently expected by the supporters of the team at McGill that their pets will win, provided no unforeseen complications develop during the game.

sulting in his temporary retirement from Rugby.

On the line, Hamilton and Harling will feature at outside, while the middle positions will be held by Dorrigan and Emo, two hefty youths who have been hitting the line regularly at practice. Ruddicombe and L. J. Foss will fill at inside, and Johnston, Evans and Len Reid will work the scrum. Schwartzman, Eason, Layhew, Boyer, Matthews and Freeman will be carried as spares.

Smokers Delight

It was the first day of the session, and a jubilant student with a happy smile adorning his care-free features could be seen making his way rapidly up the campus towards the Arts Building.

Despite the gloomy and almost funereal prospect of seven months' lectures with subsequent exams, our young hero was far from showing signs of depression, for he was a full-fledged sophomore, fully conscious of the vast gulf that now separated him from the flock of eager fledglings, who with bright and child-like faces were crowding about him, bound for the first time for the same halls of learning as himself.

Walking with his head held stiffly erect, as if to keep his metaphorical halo in position, he finally reached the classic portico of the noble building to which he was bound. Mounting the worn stone steps with an air of assumed gravity in keeping with his new-born dignity, he passed between the chaste pillars which flank the portals and entered the building.

In accordance with habits formed during the previous year, it was slightly after nine when he arrived. Intent on seeking his locker before passing a critical eye over his new professors, he turned abruptly to the left and passed on with brows bent and head deep in thought.

Whang! One of the bent brows came in sudden and violent contact with the edge of a long row of cumbersome wooden lockers, which blocked the thoroughfare towards the east. He swore softly, but restrainedly, in keeping with his new position, and squeezed his way with the trifling loss of a few overcoat buttons, to his new locker at the other end. On his way back, the erstwhile blithesome youth was obliged to give a close imitation of a Rocky Mountain goat, in order to reach the entrance hall, and was slightly disconcerted on having his new watch pulled violently from his waistcoat pocket by a projecting locker handle.

After yawning his way through the first lecture, he went along to the smoking room. Horror and consternation! It was gone. Rows of newly-varnished forms met his eye. Seeking out the janitor, he demanded to be shown the smoking room. This functionary, with a tired look in his eyes, took down a revised guide-book of the building, and started off through a maze of corridors and little staircases with a mob at his heels.

Some six or seven minutes later our hero and his fellows were shown into a small box-like cubicle with a few broken-down brushes piled against the further wall. Expostulations were in vain. This, they were assured, was the smoking room provided by Their Serene Highnesses The Powers-That-Be.

Seeing that the situation was hopeless, lots were cast, and students whose names began with A or B took their places in the smoking room. The others lined up in a most docile manner, waiting their turn. Our hero had the misfortune to be called Yates. He wondered seriously if he would have time to change it by Act of Parliament before his turn came.

Just then a bell clanged, and making their way back through a maze of corridors and lockers, he and his comrades arrived just ten minutes late for the second lecture.

The performance was repeated after the next period, and the next. At one o'clock, Yates with his tongue hanging out was still standing in line. The M's and N's were occupying the smoking room. Long before his turn came his morale had broken down completely. With his sleeves hanging in shreds and his collar missing as a result of the struggles past, the lockers, he weakly gave up his place and staggered back along the path he had come. Gone was the new-found pride and the rosy hopes of the future. The Arts Building was not the same, and his spirit was crushed by the ghastly ordeal he had just gone through. Crushing the remnant of his hat on his head, he completely forgot to uphold the dignity of his position, and passed out of the door muttering "Helovante, helovante."

INSTITUTED 8-HOUR DAY.

Sir William Mather, P.C., died at Bramshaw, Hants, after a brief illness, in his 83rd year.

A large employer of labor, and reputed to be a millionaire, Sir William was the first of the big employers to institute the eight-hour day, in 1893, at his works at Salford.

With Edison, he designed and constructed the electric traction for the first Tube railway in London.

He was elected member of Parliament for South Salford, and then successively sat in the Liberal interest for Gordon and Rossendale until 1904, when he retired from politics.

GRAY'S MONUMENT.

"Can storied urn or animated bust—?" An historic memorial of Thomas Gray, author of the immortal "Elegy," was offered for sale by public auction at Slough, but there were no bidders. The monument consists of a large sarcophagus to the memory of the poet, and was erected in 1799 by John Penn after a design by James Wyatt, the architect. Some verses of the "Elegy" are inscribed upon it.

It stands in a meadow of 6-3-4 acres adjoining Stoke Poges Church. Both the fields and the monument were submitted in one lot.

Gray's tomb is in Stoke Poges church-yard, and is annually visited by thousands of visitors. In one year no fewer than 4,000 Americans signed the visitors book in the church.

STRIKE INSURANCE PROPOSED AS REMEDY FOR THE EMPLOYER

(From "The Bache Review")

Sir Alfred Booth, managing director of the Cunard Company, whose keen vision enabled him, before the war, to give conservative warnings of what would happen after the conflict closed, said recently that "employers of every class must now organize themselves for dealing with labor affairs exclusively."

This is the essence of industrial wisdom.

If we analyze the present disturbed situation, we find that the labor problem looms up above all others, through the threatening atmosphere.

If the world were assured of sound, unswerving, unremitting and loyal co-operation from every kind of labor, all other difficulties would progress.

It is either the actual existence of labor trouble from strikes to revolutions, or the fear of these, which is keeping the world in turmoil.

Labor troubles did not start as a result of the war. The record of twenty-five years in the United States, for instance, shows that each succeeding five-year epoch has found industries harassed by: (1), an increased per cent. of strikes; (2), by an increased per cent. of employees involved; (3), by increased duration of strikes, and (4), by a correspondingly increased financial loss to employers, wage-earners and the public.

A Great Economic Waste.

It has been further estimated that these various disturbances costing the country vast discomfort also through direct and indirect consequences, produce a combined loss or economic waste of five billion dollars annually.

The increased strike frequency is attributed chiefly to the American Federation of Labor, incident upon its increase of membership from time to time; in other words, marked progress in membership in this body has always been accompanied by a heavy increase in number of strikes throughout the country. The Federation now has a membership of over 4,000,000. At its Montreal convention it announced determination to increase the enrollment to 5,000,000 during the next twelve months. This, it is claimed by observers, can only be done by calling strikes in open and non-union shops, upon demands for recognition of unionism. Comparative calculations indicate the probability of more than 10,000 strikes during the ensuing five-year period.

Those who have given the subject a large amount of thought claim that there is only one way in which this appalling increase in economic waste, through increased strikes, can be avoided, and that is through the organization of employers themselves.

Labor is highly organized. Employers as a class have never been organized in a powerful way, though they have long intended to create such an organization.

Cause of the Trouble.

The organization of labor has placed the balance of industrial power in the hands of the professional body of leaders of labor, who are now in the saddle and naturally intoxicated with power. These leaders generally have only a personal advantage to gain. They ignore economic conditions and the interests of industry in general, of the employee and of the public.

A company of thoughtful men in Maryland have organized a corporation with three things, as they state, in view: (1), Organization having a definite objective; (2), Adherence to a well-devised plan, and (3), Reimbursement by members for loss sustained on account of resistance of unwarranted strike demands, through a fund contributed by employers, in all sections and industries.

This is what has become known as Strike Insurance. In presenting arguments for the existence of such a corporation, the organizers say in effect: "Whenever a catastrophe hazard has threatened Society, Insurance has stepped into the breach, bringing order out of chaos."

They now propose to cover with insurance the money loss caused by strikes—a risk at present estimated to be more than fifteen times greater than the annual risk of loss by fire.

They claim that this risk should long since have been coverable by insurance as a fundamental principle of business activity. They claim that the responsibility for the condition under which labor has been given the dominant power in industry rests upon the employer who, either through fear of personal loss or lack of definite plan, fails to maintain open-shop conditions in his plant and to demand that earnings be based upon the amount of satisfactory work performed.

Some Details of the Plan.

Under this plan a manufacturer joining the Association is insured for 80 p.c. of the actual loss of his estimated Fixed Charges and Net Profits, caused by a partial or total stoppage of production because of a strike or walkout of all or part of the employees.

A strike beginning at any time during the policy year is covered for a term not exceeding the next 300 working days.

The organization, thus far, is representative of manufacturers operating representative of manufacturers operating 34 distinct industries distributed throughout 20 States. Each new member adds to its effective strength and brings closer the stabilization of labor conditions.

Since the beginning of operations, the company, through the deterrent effect of its form of action, has prevented 76 p.c. of the strikes by which its members were threatened. The balance being unpreventable, the company, it states, has promptly and satisfactorily reimbursed the members involved, some of whom testify that their immunity from loss enabled them to bring the strikes to an early termination.

We have given considerable space to this movement, the first that we know of, to organize employers for the purpose of remedying, in a fair and businesslike way, the evil of strikes.

We have done so because dealing with labor affairs intelligently and effectively is now, as Sir Alfred Booth indicates, the first and most important business of employers everywhere.

A New Constructive Element.

It must be noted, however, that this plan of operation to decrease strikes, while it strengthens the hands of just employers, lends itself also to amelioration and arbitration between the contending parties—that is, if requested, it will do so.

And, in fact, in cases which have already come up in the experience of the company strikes, when declared, have been settled in short order, whereas without such an interested intermediary as the Insurance Company, obstinacy on both sides might have prolonged the conflict indefinitely.

This introduces a new constructive element into such situations, namely, a powerful third party which is losing money while the strike lasts, and is, consequently, in its own interests, moved to do everything possible to end hostilities. So much for the employers' side.
